Museum Lampung Ruwa Jurai is the largest museum in Lampung that stores various cultural heritages and functions as one of the cultural heritage conservation and preservation. Lampung Ruwai Jurai Museum is one of the choices for non-formal cultural-based tourism and education visits, but unfortunately the process of experiencing this learning is often ceremonial so that learning is distracted by the sense of entertainment and euphoria of the visit for students. Therefore, a solution in the form of an activity book is offered to facilitate students in directing their focus on a study visit to the Museum. In the process, the research method used is a qualitative research method containing direct observation, interviews, questionnaires, and reference studies, which are then processed by Tim Brown referring to the five stages of the design process put forward by Robin Landa in his book Graphic Design Solutions. Through the design of this book, the existence of the Lampung Ruwa Jurai Museum is optimized as an educational support for Elementary School students, by providing learning media that can be used during study visit activities.
